OPERATIONS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

FIND YOUR BEGINNING AT RICHARDSON

The thing about beginnings is that we often don't know we are in one until we look back. At Richardson, we have over 160 years of beginnings to look back on as we have grown to become the leader that shapes Canada's agriculture industry.

We can promise you that once you start here, you will not stop. You are going to learn and be inspired by new places, people, and opportunities. If that is what you are looking for, there is a Richardson beginning waiting for you.

START WITH OUR OPERATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

At Richardson, we offer a multifaceted program with exposure to manufacturing and processing operations.

The Operations Development Program will provide you with in-depth plant and equipment experience in a hands-on operational environment. The program also provides you with exposure to key areas of Richardson's vast network and various business divisions.

Through this unmatched training program, you will encounter several challenging positions within Richardson's processing, manufacturing, grain handling, and port terminal facilities across Canada. You will have the chance to work at multiple locations and will be required to relocate, at least once, during the program.

DEVELOP YOUR CAREER

Richardson is interested in people who want to enhance their careers with the objective of transitioning into future leadership roles. You will learn about Richardson's business through exposure to various divisions and will provide operations support at our facilities.

RESPONSIBILITIES INCLUDE:

- Working with operations teams to meet targets for safety, quality, and production
 - Performing routine operations processes and working hands-on with equipment
 - Learning about food safety and the requirements for production
 - Developing effective working relationships with a diverse group of peers and managers

CRITERIA

This program is open to graduates and students of post-secondary technical schools across Canada. Successful candidates will possess these qualities:

- Strong interest in manufacturing and processing
- Mechanical aptitude
- Leadership skills
- Sense of initiative
- Communication and interpersonal skills
- Willingness and ability to relocate
